of the Christian faith in the

A Workshop

This workshop explores the current demographic transformation in the movement of the Christian faith and the historical, theological, and missiological implications that this movement has on the life of Christian communities in the United States. We will look at sounds, images, and theological developments that are both in continuity and discontinuity with Western historical and theological Christian experiences and theological encyclopedia.

Facilitator

Dr. Carlos Cardoza-Orlandi is Associate Professor of World Christianity at Columbia Theological Seminary whose scholarly interests include the globalization of Christianity; and themes, theories, and theology in the study of religion among others.
